

Chris White

Chris leads 5 weekly singing groups and has taught singing and songwriting at all levels. He hosts several programs on CKCU FM 93.1, including Canada's longest-running folk music radio program. He has released three albums of original songs – "Inner Voice", "I'm a Poet... and I'm Aware of It", and "Music All Around", and received the 2012 Helen Verger Award for "significant, sustained contributions to folk music in Canada".

Moe Archambault

Moe Archambault is a retired nurse who worked in long-term care and home-care for over 30 years. She is also a long-time volunteer in community centres and seniors centres. Describing herself as "an all-round fun-loving individual", Moe radiates positive energy that has a beneficial effect on everyone.

Jennifer Noxon

Group leader Jennifer Noxon believes as a teacher and as a musician, that singing is our birthright and singing for fun with others helps people to relieve stress, feel connected, and improve their overall sense of well-being. Jennifer has been singing all her life, in school musicals, at summer camp, and as a performing songwriter on the folk festival circuit. She is also a visual artist, and leader of Rhythm & Song Community Choirs in Almonte and Perth.
